The Hot Side

Still Can't Buy Me Love (4:15) - This one is a big hit for us in Japan.

Gorilla (gorilla) (4:11) - "Elk elk elk."

Tandem Bicycle (3:04) - Adam's note to self: When Rand says, "But don't you think she'll know the song is about her?" listen to him.

Murder She Wrote (5:18) - You know, William Conrad wasn't really all that fat.

View Master (6:20) - There. Diagonally!

Cool (2:55) - How did this song end up on the hot side?

Math (3:00) - Try using base 6.

Just Another Cliche (5:03) - Potentate is a funny word.

The Cool Side

Renoir Song (1:02) - Rand stole this lyric verbatim from a Mr. Boffo strip.

Rats Live On nO eviL staR (2:59) - "When it's all over you ask where we are."

Three Monkeys (3:46) - This song is about Adam's college sweetheart. He later wrote a comic book about her in which she dies. He feels much better now.

Jeff's Corner (2:32) - If you see Jeff hanging out at Nietzsche's in Buffalo, be sure to ask him about his kites.

Stranger In The Mirror (7:07) - This song makes perfect sense if you've read Alan Moore's Swamp Thing and Watchmen, Jamie Delano's Hellblazer, Shirley Jackson's "The Lottery," William Shakespeare's Hamlet, Albert Camus and Billy Joel's The Stranger, the collected works of John Valby, Kafka's Metamorphosis, and issue 104 of The Flash.

Lemon Oh's Song (2:17) - This song makes perfect sense if you roomed with Rand in college.

Baby's Head (4:03) - For the last time: This was an improv. We made it up as we went along. Please stop asking us to do it in concert.

Private I (6:42) - See, Macauley Culkin was in a production of The Nutcracker, see, and... oh, never mind.
